Form 990, Part III, Line 1, Description of Organization Mission:

JRF raises funds and awards scholarships annually to low-income women thirty-five years of age and older who are in an undergraduate or vocational training program and have a vision of how their education will benefit themselves, their families, and their communities.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a, Program Service Accomplishments

Associate's Degree, or a first Bachelor's Degree, and low-income according to the U.S. Department of Labor's lower living standard.

Applications are first screened and must pass through three levels of review and selection. The selection process is organized by staff and carried out by volunteers and board members using JRF selection guidelines.

The Scholarship Program is managed by an Executive Director, Program Coordinator, and Program Assistant. In addition, JRF uses a network of volunteers and student interns to help not only with the application review process but also daily operations.

The value of a college education can be quantified by looking at the increased earning power it provides. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics and Census Bureau, the median salary for women, based on the first quarter of 2009, is: $20,176 for less than a high school education; $27,404 for a high school graduate; $32,604 with an Associate's Degree; and $46,020 with a Bachelor's Degree.
